And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself. And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live. But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee. Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me; because the LORD hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn; To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the LORD, that he might be glorified. Isaiah 61:1-3

THE ADVENTURES OF ROOSTER AND BANJO

BANJO, ROOSTER, AND PUMPKIN PLAY DISC GOLF

Uncle Flick paid the fee at the entrance to Paul B. Johnson State Park and drove on. Soon, he said, "I'm gonna drive through the lake!"

The children had been looking at their atlases and coloring books, but that got their attention. They looked up to see what looked like a bridge covered in flood water. "Turn around; don't drown!" Banjo said.

Aunt Nana said, "Very good, Banjo. But this road is built for water to cross it. It's called a spillway. It's a way to release water from the lake when it gets full. When they build a dam to create a lake, they usually include some sort of way to safely lower the height of the water to avoid flooding, erosion, and road damage from rushing water."

"This water ain't rushing," Rooster observed. "But... pro-blee not the best place to swim."

"That's right," Uncle Flick agreed. "I haven't been in a boat on this lake, but I have on some. You'll see warning signs or even barriers to prevent you getting too close to dangerous areas. That's great, of course, but don't be like some people. They decide, well, there's no warning sign, so it must be safe. Rooster would look at it and say, Maybe not a safe place. That's the way to think, Rooster."

"There could be a sign, but the high water knocked it down," Banjo pointed out.

"Good point," Aunt Nana said. "Always use your brain. Oh, look!"

"It the bass-kit," Pumpkin said. She had already spotted some and found them fascinating. "I pay?"

"Yes, you're going to play disc golf," Aunt Nana said. "We all are."

Soon, Uncle Flick had found a good parking place and they all got out. The children ran to a playground area first. When they got tired of that, Uncle Flick handed out discs. Of course, Pumpkin wanted pink, but she had to settle for purple. The boys both wanted blue, but they were luckier than Pumpkin. There was a light and a dark blue disc.

"It's actually more about what type disc it is," Uncle Flick told them. "Some are for shorter throws and some are for longer, for example."

The children ignored him and started throwing their discs in random directions. Uncle Flick laughed and got them lined up to all throw toward the same bucket. It took Pumpkin a few more tries than the others, but soon all five discs were in the bucket.

"Can we go to that bucket?" Rooster asked. "I can make it in one throw!"

"Y'all go ahead," Aunt Nana said. "I'm taking Pumpkin to the bathroom."

It was quite a walk, but the little girl made it just fine. When they left the building, there were Muscovy ducks wandering

by. "I pet them!" Pumpkin hollered, giving chase.

"No, sweetie," Aunt Nana cautioned. It didn't look like the ducks were going to cooperate, anyway, but just in case.

"We don't pet animals we don't know. They might think you're trying to hurt them."

"They bite me?" Pumpkin asked horrified.

"Hmmm, bite, peck, something like that," Aunt Nana said.

"You know I'm not much for knowing what every animal will do. But one thing I do know. Any animal, even a tame one that lives inside, is going to protect itself when it feels threatened. That's just natural."

"It knows I not hut it," Pumpkin declared confidently, running toward the ducks, which had settled nearby. They immediately scattered. "Be still!" she scolded them. "I not hut you."

"Pumpkin, they do seem tame, but do not touch the ducks," Aunt Nana said firmly. "We don't know enough about them. Just enjoy looking at them, and then we'll go back to play disc golf."

After a few more baskets had been defeated, Rooster asked if he could walk down to the lake. They all decided to go. The weather was perfect, sunny with a light breeze, and standing by the lake was very pleasant. They watched boats go by, ducks land and take off from the water, and fish jump.

"Pay-gound!" Pumpkin hollered after a while. Sure enough, there was another playground, so the children and Aunt Nana walked over to it while Uncle Flick walked back to the car.

They were all glad to see him drive up and park near the playground. "I'm hungry," Banjo said. "Did we bring a picnic lunch?"

"We did," Aunt Nana said. "You children keep playing while I help Uncle Flick get things out."

Soon, the children were choosing sandwiches, fruit, and drinks. There were picnic tables, but it was more fun to sit on the grass in the sunshine.

When everyone was full, Aunt Nana picked up with help from Rooster while Banjo showed Pumpkin how to go up one last part of the playground. Uncle Flick carried the picnic basket back to the car.

Soon, Pumpkin was yawning. "We have to leave, huh?" Rooster asked. "Pumpkin's tired."

"And so am I," Aunt Nana said. "But now that we've been here and know all the fun stuff to do, we'll come back."

"Soon!" Banjo agreed.
