Behold, the LORD's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save, or his ear dull, that it cannot hear; but your iniquities have made a separation between you and your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you so that he does not hear. For your hands are defiled with blood and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies; your tongue mutters wickedness. No one enters suit justly; no one goes to law honestly; they rely on empty pleas, they speak lies, they conceive mischief and give birth to iniquity. They hatch adders' eggs; they weave the spider's web; he who eats their eggs dies, and from one that is crushed a viper is hatched. Their webs will not serve as clothing; men will not cover themselves with what they make. Their works are works of iniquity, and deeds of violence are in their hands. Their feet run to evil, and they are swift to shed innocent blood; their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity; desolation and destruction are in their highways. The way of peace they do not know, and there is no justice in their paths; they have made their roads crooked; no one who treads on them knows peace.

Justice is turned back, and righteousness stands far away; for truth has stumbled in the public squares, and uprightness cannot enter. Truth is lacking, and he who departs from evil makes himself a prey. The LORD saw it, and it displeased him that there was no justice. He saw that there was no man, and wondered that there was no one to intercede; then his own arm brought him salvation, and his righteousness upheld him. He put on righteousness as a breastplate, and a helmet of salvation on his head; he put on garments of vengeance for clothing, and wrapped himself in zeal as a cloak. According to their deeds, so will he repay, wrath to his adversaries, repayment to his enemies; to the coastlands he will render repayment. So they shall fear the name of the LORD from the west, and his glory from the rising of the sun; for he will come like a rushing stream, which the wind of the LORD drives. "And a Redeemer will come to Zion, to those in Jacob who turn from transgression," declares the LORD. "And as for me, this is my covenant with them," says the LORD: "My Spirit that is upon you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, or out of the mouth of your offspring, or out of the mouth of your children's offspring," says the LORD, "from this time forth and forevermore."

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit to Galilee, and a report about him went out through all the surrounding country. And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified by all. And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up. And as was his custom, he went to the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and he stood up to read. And the scroll of the prophet Isaiah was given to him. He unrolled the scroll and found the place where it was written, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor." And he rolled up the scroll and gave it back to the attendant and sat down. And the eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed on him. And he began to say to them, "Today this Scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing." And all spoke well of him and marveled at the gracious words that were coming from his mouth. And they said, "Is not this Joseph's son?"

The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me, because the LORD has anointed me to bring good news to the poor; he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to those who are bound; to proclaim the year of the LORD's favor, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all who mourn; to grant to those who mourn in Zion—to give them a beautiful headdress instead of ashes, the oil of gladness instead of mourning, the garment of praise instead of a faint spirit; that they may be called oaks of righteousness, the planting of the LORD, that he may be glorified.

TELL THEM YOU SAW IT IN THE TRADER

And he said to them, "Doubtless you will quote to me this proverb, "Physician, heal yourself." What we have heard you did at Capernaum, do here in your hometown as well." And he said, "Truly, I say to you, no prophet is acceptable in his hometown. But in truth, I tell you, there were many widows in Israel in the days of Elijah, when the heavens were shut up three years and six months, and a great famine came over all the land, and Elijah was sent to none of them but only to Zarephath, in the land of Sidon, to a woman who was a widow. And there were many lepers in Israel in the time of the prophet Elisha, and none of them was cleansed, but only Naaman the Syrian." When they heard these things, all in the synagogue were filled with wrath.

THE ADVENTURES OF ROOSTER AND BANJO

AUNT NANA HAS UNEXPECTED VISITORS

One summer morning, Aunt Nana was getting a lot done at home. The house was quiet, peaceful. No children came running in to ask for a snack. It was lovely.

Aunt Nana preferred boisterous interruptions to solitude, but she did enjoy a productive day occasionally. Then her phone rang. The number wasn't one she had saved, but she answered anyway.

"Hello?" she said, hoping it wasn't a telemarketer.

"Aunt Nana?" The voice was familiar. "It's Wildflower. Are you busy?"

"Never too busy for my favorite niece," Aunt Nana said. "It's so good to hear from you. I thought I would catch you at your mother's last week, but I was too slow getting there, and you had to leave."

Wildflower laughed. Aunt Nana had always called whichever niece or nephew she was speaking to her favorite. For the moment. "You should have driven your car instead of riding your bike," she teased. "Aren't you getting a little old for that?"

Aunt Nana said, "You know I've decided to be honest about my age, but still act like I'm a kid. And that bike is great exercise."

"I'll bet it is." Wildflower was quiet for a moment. Aunt Nana waited. There was a reason for the call, she was sure. Finally, Wildflower said, "Is there any possible way you could watch Dodge and Sparkle for me today? I really need to work, Mom is busy, and--"

--Bring those babies to me!" Aunt Nana interrupted to insist. "I miss them! They'll be all grown up soon."

Wildflower giggled. She had been dreading the call, and now she wondered why. Even if Aunt Nana had plans, she would usually find a way to include children in the plans.

"I'm not sure how long this job will take. I may be five or six getting home tonight," Wildflower said. She ran her own business cleaning at customers' homes or businesses.

"The sooner you drop the children, the sooner you can start work," Aunt Nana insisted. "But do make sure they know, it will be just them today, as far as I know. They will rescue me from a boring day of housework."

Aunt Nana was soon getting hugs from her great-niece and great-nephew. "I'm surprised y'all remember me," she told Sparkle and Dodge.

"You helped me with my math," Sparkle said. "When I was just little."

"You're almost a grown young lady now," Aunt Nana told the almost-teen. "You're going to be as tall as your mother. Please don't be offended if I accidentally call you Wildflower today."

"I won't," Sparkle promised, grinning.

"I played with Rooster and Banjo here," Dodge said. "But Mama said they're not here today."

"No, it will be just the three of us today," Aunt Nana said. "But I do have a surprise. I can't go today, but tomorrow, your Mama said I can take you two to the water park. I have spare tickets. Does that sound like fun?"

"Oh, wow!" Dodge and Sparkle loved waterparks. They hugged their Mama goodbye and ran inside to put their things down. Aunt Nana always tried to have one room that was set aside for children of whatever age to play in. It didn't take them long to find a book for Dodge to read. Sparkle pulled out her notebook and colored pens so she could work on the story she was writing.

"If you send a text when you head this way, I'll get them gathered up," Aunt Nana promised. "And do y'all still enjoy lasagne?"

"Random question, but yes," Wildflower asked as she got in her truck."

"Good, that's what I'm planning for supper. I'll have the children help me make one for y'all, and you won't have to cook after a long, hard day."

"You're the best," Wildflower said, wondering again why she had hesitated to call.

"I try to spoil my nieces and nephews so they'll always visit," Aunt Nana admitted. "And it's fun!"

Aunt Nana went to the Kids Room, as she called it, and found Sparkle trying to draw illustrations for her story. Dodge was practically in Sparkle's lap, sticking his head in the way as he watched. "Do you like to draw?" Aunt Nana asked Dodge. "I'll get some paper and paint for you."

"No, I just like to watch," Dodge said.

"Let's not," Aunt Nana said. "Sparkle can barely move the way you're leaning on her." Sparkle's eyes showed her appreciation. She loved her little brother, but she was growing up and he was a little kid. Their interests weren't coinciding as much lately, and he sometimes got on her nerves.

Soon, Aunt Nana was teaching Dodge a new board game called Sequence Dice. He caught onto the rules very well. Aunt Nana won the first game, but he had lucky rolls early in the second game and beat her quickly.

"This is fun," Dodge said. "I've never played it."

"Aunt Daisy taught Rooster and Banjo, and then I had to have the game here. We play often," Aunt Nana said. "And after this, you can help me cook supper for your family."

Sparkle had a peaceful day, writing and drawing, while Aunt Nana and Dodge got to know one another better.
