THE ADVENTURES OF ROOSTER AND BANJO

BANJO, PUMPKIN, AND ROOSTER GO ON VACATION

"Here's my bag, Aunt Honey," Rooster said one morning. Aunt Honey was packing the car with all the things the seven of them would need for a couple of nights away. She added the small duffle bag to the stack.

"Thanks, buddy," she told Rooster. "And see if you can bring the small ice chest. We'll put it in the front part of the van so we can have something cold to drink after our adventures today."

"Yay!" Pumpkin squealed. "Ah-been-chaws! I wike ah-been-chaws!"

Uncle Tractor was walking by and heard her. He had no idea what the little girl had said until Aunt Honey whispered, "Adventures, Dad. She's going on an adventure."

Uncle Tractor nodded and set the big ice chest in the spot Honey pointed to. "You're doing a great job keeping the stuff organized, Honey," he said. "What do you want next?"

"We're not taking much food, but I do want that bag of fruit and snacks," Aunt Honey said. "It can go next to the ice chest."

"Alrighty," Uncle Tractor agreed, heading back inside. "In my day, we would all grab clean underwear and a toothbrush and take off."

Aunt Honey laughed. She knew her father would make sure he had an extra outfit, just in case. They were all bad about over-packing.

Soon, the vehicle was loaded and Uncle Flick drove away. "Where to first, kids?" he asked.

Banjo answered, "I want to see dolphins!"

Pumpkin said, "Ah-been-chaws!"

"The waterpark!" Rooster insisted.

Aunt Nana said, "Ok, I was keeping things a surprise, but today, we're going to the Infinity Science Center. It's a space and earth science museum. I think it will be fun for everyone."

"A science museum?" Rooster asked, clearly delighted. "I liked that nuther one we went to."

"This will be very different," Aunt Nana explained. "The one we went to in Jackson focuses on natural science. Animals and their habitats, from the past and in the present, from dinosaurs to today's endangered species. The one we're going to today is more about how astronauts go to space."

"Space!" Banjo cheered. "I'm gonna be an astronaut one day!"

"Work hard in science and math classes, and you just may," Aunt Honey said. "To be honest, work hard in everything. Social sciences like history and geography help you understand the world we live in, and language is how we communicate what we learn to other people and learn from them."

"Yeah, I would probably be an astronaut, but I failed that English class that one time," Uncle Flick said.

"You failed!?" Rooster asked. "Really?"

"Not really," Uncle Flick said. "I got credit, but those classes honestly were hard for me." He knew both boys had struggled sometimes with a subject, and he wanted them to know it was okay to have to work harder at some things.

"And that isn't what kept me from being an astronaut," he added. "I may not have made it if I had chosen that field, but I'll never know because I chose something different to study in college."

The drive seemed to end quickly, and soon the children were in a simulated deep-sea dive, then they put on 3D glasses to go into the IMAX theater. They played in all sorts of hands-on centers, learning about weather, gravity, engineering, and technology.

When everyone got hungry, Uncle Tractor and Uncle Flick got out the ice chest and they enjoyed a picnic lunch under some trees. While the adults finished eating, the children played on a playground. Then they walked through a nature trail, reading signs and trying very hard to spot an alligator.

When it was time to leave, the children were reluctant. But then Aunt Nana showed them a picture of the house they were staying in. "It's so big!" Banjo exclaimed. "Way better than a hotel room!"

"There's not gonna be a pool, is there?" Rooster asked.

"No, there's not," Uncle Flick said. "But I'll bet we have fun, anyway."

Aunt Honey said, "There's a fenced backyard, and I brought a few things for that."

At the house, the children explored for what seemed like hours. Each wanted a turn in the jacuzzi tub. They found a room with two bunk beds and decided they could all sleep there.

The kitchen was very nice, and there were two tables to choose from when Uncle Flick left and returned with pizza. As soon as the pizza was demolished, the group played board games and card games until little heads were about to hit the table.

After getting the children bathed and in bed, Aunt Honey said, "I guess I'll have to wait to show them what I brought to play with in the back yard."

Aunt Nana said, "Get up early with them and keep them entertained, please. I'm planning to sleep late!"

I do it all for the sake of the gospel, that I may share with them in its blessings. Do you not know that in a race all the runners run, but only one receives the prize? So run that you may obtain it. Every athlete exercises self-control in all things. They do it to receive a perishable wreath, but we an imperishable. So I do not run aimlessly; I do not box as one beating the air. But I discipline my body and keep it under control, lest after preaching to others I myself should be disqualified.

so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith—that you, being rooted and grounded in love, may have strength to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth and length and height and depth, and to know the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge, that you may be filled with all the fullness of God. Now to him who is able to do far more abundantly than all that we ask or think, according to the power at work within us, to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus throughout all generations, forever and ever. Amen.

Only be strong and very courageous, being careful to do according to all the law that Moses my servant commanded you. Do not turn from it to the right hand or to the left, that you may have good success wherever you go. This Book of the Law shall not depart from your mouth, but you shall meditate on it day and night, so that you may be careful to do according to all that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will have good success. Have I not commanded you? Be strong and courageous. Do not be frightened, and do not be dismayed, for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go."
