Romans 6:23

THE ADVENTURES OF ROOSTER AND BANJO

BANJO, PUMPKIN, AND ROOSTER GO ON VACATION

"Here's my bag, Aunt Honey," Rooster said one morning. Aunt Honey was packing the car with all the things the seven of them would need for a couple of nights away. She added the small duffle bag to the stack.

"Thanks, buddy," she told Rooster. "And see if you can bring the small ice chest. We'll put it in the front part of the van so we can have something cold to drink after our adventures today."

"Yay!" Pumpkin squealed. "Ah-been-chaws! I wike ah-been-chaws!"

Uncle Tractor was walking by and heard her. He had no idea what the little girl had said until Aunt Honey whispered, "Adventures, Dad. She's going on an adventure."

Uncle Tractor nodded and set the big ice chest in the spot Honey pointed to. "You're doing a great job keeping the stuff organized, Honey," he said. "What do you want next?"

"We're not taking much food, but I do want that bag of fruit and snacks," Aunt Honey said. "It can go next to the ice chest."

"Alrighty," Uncle Tractor agreed, heading back inside. "In my day, we would all grab clean underwear and a toothbrush and take off."

Aunt Honey laughed. She knew her father would make sure he had an extra outfit, just in case. They were all bad about over-packing.

Soon, the vehicle was loaded and Uncle Flick drove away. "Where to first, kids?" he asked.

Banjo answered, "I want to see dolphins!"

Pumpkin said, "Ah-been-chaws!"

"The waterpark!" Rooster insisted.

Aunt Nana said, "Ok, I was keeping things a surprise, but today, we're going to the Infinity Science Center. It's a space and earth science museum. I think it will be fun for everyone."

"A science museum?" Rooster asked, clearly delighted. "I liked that nuther one we went to."

"This will be very different," Aunt Nana explained. "The one we went to in Jackson focuses on natural science. Animals and their habitats, from the past and in the present, from dinosaurs to today's endangered species. The one we're going to today is more about how astronauts go to space."

"Space!" Banjo cheered. "I'm gonna be an astronaut one day!"

"Work hard in science and math classes, and you just may," Aunt Honey said. "To be honest, work hard in everything. Social sciences like history and geography help you understand the world we live in, and language is how we communicate what we learn to other people and learn from them."

"Yeah, I would probably be an astronaut, but I failed that English class that one time," Uncle Flick said.

"You failed!?" Rooster asked. "Really?"

"Not really," Uncle Flick said. "I got credit, but those classes honestly were hard for me." He knew both boys had struggled sometimes with a subject, and he wanted them to know it was okay to have to work harder at some things.

"And that isn't what kept me from being an astronaut," he added. "I may not have made it if I had chosen that field, but I'll never know because I chose something different to study in college."

The drive seemed to end quickly, and soon the children were in a simulated deep-sea dive, then they put on 3D glasses to go into the IMAX theater. They played in all sorts of hands-on centers, learning about weather, gravity, engineering, and technology.

When everyone got hungry, Uncle Tractor and Uncle Flick got out the ice chest and they enjoyed a picnic lunch under some trees. While the adults finished eating, the children played on a playground. Then they walked through a nature trail, reading signs and trying very hard to spot an alligator.

When it was time to leave, the children were reluctant. But then Aunt Nana showed them a picture of the house they were staying in. "It's so big!" Banjo exclaimed. "Way better than a hotel room!"

"There's not gonna be a pool, is there?" Rooster asked.

"No, there's not," Uncle Flick said. "But I'll bet we have fun, anyway."

Aunt Honey said, "There's a fenced backyard, and I brought a few things for that."

At the house, the children explored for what seemed like hours. Each wanted a turn in the jacuzzi tub. They found a room with two bunk beds and decided they could all sleep there.

The kitchen was very nice, and there were two tables to choose from when Uncle Flick left and returned with pizza. As soon as the pizza was demolished, the group played board games and card games until little heads were about to hit the table.

After getting the children bathed and in bed, Aunt Honey said, "I guess I'll have to wait to show them what I brought to play with in the back yard."

Aunt Nana said, "Get up early with them and keep them entertained, please. I'm planning to sleep late!"

What then? Are we Jews any better off? No, not at all. For we have already charged that all, both Jews and Greeks, are under sin, as it is written: "None is righteous, no, not one; no one understands; no one seeks for God. All have turned aside; together they have become worthless; no one does good, not even one." "Their throat is an open grave; they use their tongues to deceive." "The venom of asps is under their lips." "Their mouth is full of curses and bitterness." "Their feet are swift to shed blood; in their paths are ruin and misery, and the way of peace they have not known." "There is no fear of God before their eyes." Now we know that whatever the law says it speaks to those who are under the law, so that every mouth may be stopped, and the whole world may be held accountable to God. For by works of the law no human being will be justified in his sight, since through the law comes knowledge of sin.

But now the righteousness of God has been manifested apart from the law, although the Law and the Prophets bear witness to it—the righteousness of God through faith in Jesus Christ for all who believe. For there is no distinction: for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, and are justified by his grace as a gift, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, whom God put forward as a propitiation by his blood, to be received by faith. This was to show God's righteousness, because in his divine forbearance he had passed over former sins. It was to show his righteousness at the present time, so that he might be just and the justifier of the one who has faith in Jesus.

because, if you confess with your mouth that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. For with the heart one believes and is justified, and with the mouth one confesses and is saved. For the Scripture says, "Everyone who believes in him will not be put to shame." For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek; for the same Lord is Lord of all, bestowing his riches on all who call on him. For "everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved."
